

Prepare for SMS Week by reading CAIB report

▲ NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe to kick off NASA Safety and Mission Success Week Nov. 17:

Center Director Jim Kennedy has asked "individuals and organizations to reflect on the relevance of the CAIB findings and recommendations and provide input and feedback on the implementation strategies." Copies of the CAIB Report have been distributed to all KSC employees to read, internalize the findings and focus on its Agencywide implications as well as in your own workplace. Kennedy suggests asking ourselves, "What will I/we do differently?" Responses from group dialogues will be collected, analyzed and reported. On Nov. 17, NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe will kick off SMS Week, which will be followed by a KSC All Hands Meeting. Details on the KSC All Hands will be issued soon.

▲ Combined Federal Campaign sets another all-time giving record:

NASA employees at KSC set another all-time giving record during their recently concluded Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). During this year's CFC, 85 percent of the Federal employees generously contributed more than $354,000, far exceeding the campaign goal of $280,000. Of that amount, nearly $121,000 will be distributed to local charities in Brevard County.

◆ Society of Women Engineers Joint meeting with Orlando section – Meet lots of new faces at the joint SWE Space Coast - Orlando sections Nov. 19 meeting. Also, just in time for the holidays, learn about feng shui and "How to Declutter Your Life" from Melody LeBaron, a space clearing practitioner, an instinctive feng shui consultant, a professional organizer, and a Kundalini Yoga teacher. LeBaron will explain the different forms of feng shui and share feng shui principles that we can use to create homes and offices that support our best lives. Dinner
